identified or identifiable natural person and the said person is known as "data subject".

Third party
beneficiary rights.

3. Without prejudice to any other remedy available to the data subject pursuant to the Act and the Regulation, a data subject whose personal data is transferred by a controller or a processor to a third country or to an international organisation pursuant to Article 46 of the Regulation shall be entitled to enforce third party beneficiary rights conferred on data subjects by the instrument concerned, or by any clauses or rules expressed to be for the benefit of data subjects in the said instrument.

Relevant instruments.

4. (1) The relevant instruments for providing appropriate safeguards pursuant to Article 46 of the Regulation and that shall entitle the data subject to third party beneficiary rights, are:

(a) standard data protection clauses adopted by the European Commission in accordance with the examination procedure referred to in Article 93(2) of the Regulation; or

(b) any other instrument granting third party beneficiary rights to the data subjects which is recognised under Chapter V of the Regulation as an appropriate safeguard utilised to regulate the international transfer of personal data.

(2) Any action by the data subject to enforce rights granted to him and any clauses expressed to be for the benefit of the data subject shall be deemed to give rise to an action founded on contract.
